Life is Precious...

Today, right now, at this very moment, there are people enduring a tremendous amount of strife. Not just afar in places like Asia or Africa but in our very own backyards. When you stop to think about it for a moment, there is an enormous amount of pain and suffering happening everywhere. The sheer enormity of it all can certainly feel overwhelming.

However, the plight of others should remind us about the importance of the simple beauties and treasures in our own lives. Instead of looking to the have-nots, we must look to the haves as a reminder of what we do have rather than what we don't have. We need to attune to the preciousness of life in every moment of time.

The fact of the matter remains that we're here one moment then gone the next. If we spend that infinitesimal amount of time steeped in worry and negative emotions, we'll never realize the miraculous gift of life that we've been given. If you stop to think about the probability of life and our own existence, you'll realize why every moment needs to be savored and treated like it could be our last.

However, all of this is just talk. To the person who's suffering through the torment of failure or has entirely lost hope in life. The words might invoke some emotions, but they're ultimately overpowered by the burden of thousands of pounds of problems resting like the weight of the world on our shoulders.

Yet, no matter what the present situation might be in your life, no matter how many problems might exist, this too shall pass. And in that time, your faith must remain unwavering. You must rely on God your creator, the spiritual and universal energy that binds us all.

No matter what your problems might be right now, the quicker you look at the positives rather than the negatives, the sooner you'll feel that cathartic cleansing that comes along with pure, unadulterated gratitude for this miraculous journey that we call life. God Bless.

Fr. Roshan Loy D'Souza, CSC
