What We See In Others Is A Reflection

Life is a delicate process of working to better ourselves. Sometimes this entails healing pieces of ourselves to allow that betterment to unfold. Other times, it means stretching ourselves into new levels by shining light and bringing forth our good qualities. Everything we see brings with it the opportunity to see ourselves inside of it if we are willing to look closely. The reflections we see from other people even if only subconsciously, can strike chords in side of us are sometimes faint and other times roar very loudly.

With each mirror comes the divine chance to dig deeper into ourselves to call forth something better within us or to bandage a broken piece of us. Every person in our lives has the opportunity to be a great teacher and each is likely mirroring something back to us. The mirror could be displaying a quality that we desire to acquire more of or it could be showing us characteristics that make us uncomfortable. Either way , it reflects something that exists inside us. The reflection is the call to bring it forth, good or bad, and resolve to work through the lesson inside of it.

Let us not forget that we are also mirrors to others and things that they see inside of us give them their own reflections to admire & grow from.

Everyone we meet is reflecting something back to us. Each person that comes into our life is placed there for beyond our knowing . Sometimes it takes a little while for us to recognize what exactly it is that they are reflecting to us, but in time and as long as were paying attention to it, we can begin to recognize the reflections that we need to see.

Ironically, the darkest corners of someone else can actually shine a light into areas of our lives that we need to work on. This could be to bring forth something stronger inside of us like confidence or to summon us to work on a weakness.

Reflections come in the form of triggers. When we see a negative reflection of ourselves, we may feel anger and sadness. When we see a positive reflection of something we desire, we tend to feel excited or motivated. Pay attention to the emotional clues and learn the language of reflective triggering. The closer we look, the more our perspective changes and the higher we are able to elevate ourselves.

God Bless.

From: Peter Okonski, Manager of Planned Giving & Personal Gifts The Pope's Pastoral Works collection was established by the bishops of Canada in 1970. The Papal Charities allow the Pope to contribute to various charitable causes around the world, particularly toward aiding the victims of war, famine and natural disasters. By contributing to the Pope's Pastoral Works, the faithful of Canada give a universal dimension to their charity.
